

Accounting and Information Systems Graduate Program Admission Guidelines for fall 2022 - International Admission

About the program

The graduate program in accounting and information systems (AIS) is an intensive multidisciplinary program that is unique among Egyptian Universities. The program is designed for those who are pursuing an academic career as faculty members and professionals who intend to enhance their careers in accounting and information systems. It involves a comprehensive study of interdisciplinary methods, theories, and research in the areas of accounting and information systems, and choices of various electives covering a wide range of related subjects.

Programs Offered

E-JUST offers two graduate programs in accounting and information systems:

1. Master of Science (M.Sc.) in AIS.
2. Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in AIS.

Students who aspire to doctoral study in accounting and information systems but need to strengthen their background may wish to consider our M.Sc., which admits both part-time and full-time students. Students in this program take many of the same courses as our doctoral students and may use these courses towards their doctoral degree if they are later admitted to the doctoral program.

Preparatory Courses: The objectives of the preparatory courses are:

- To cover the deficiencies of E-JUST PG applicants in the basic research skills, English languages, computer programming, statistics and liberal arts.
- To prepare E-JUST PG students to the required nature of PG study in E-JUST including Japanese culture, Japanese language, Arabic language for international students, Research and Publications ethic and method.
- To make the PG students familiar with E-JUST labs, center of excellences and professors before registering the point of research and before the formation of the supervision committee. This will help the student in the proper selection of the research point and supervision committee.
